

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the Federal Government is calling upon industry and urging cooperated response by manufacturers in this and other states, and

WHEREAS, William S. Anderson, Director of the Office of Production Management, has asked whether we have done everything we can to utilize existing facilities and offer them to company and defense contracts; and whether we can sub-contract still more of our work and spread it so as to make speed and more speed,

WHEREAS, American manufacturers have been thus called upon to contract the facilities of American industry to a degree not equalled since the World War, and

WHEREAS, the Greater South Dakota Association, in cooperation with similar associations in the several states, is undertaking during the week of January 19 to 25, inclusive, an exhaustive survey of potential defense facilities in this and other states,

WHEREAS, it is important to the interest of the national defense program that this survey should be done quickly, accurately and completely so that not a square foot of industrial capacity or an ounce of manufacturing power will be overlooked,

WHEREAS, I, Harlan J. Bushfield, by virtue of your franchise, Governor of South Dakota, in view of the defense emergency, to the end that every manufacturing concern which has a defense contract may be informed of idle facilities for defense production, declare and proclaim the days from January 19 to 25, inclusive, to be PREPAREDNESS THROUGH PRODUCTION WEEK, and more specifically,
